

Master of the Fallen Fortress

Extra materials to run as a Pathfinder Society sanctioned module

When signing in characters at the start of the session, work out which characters are Pathfinder Society agents, using the attached extra information sheet.

If some characters are Pathfinders and some are not, players of Pathfinder characters receive the first handout. These Pathfinders have the task of recruiting extra party members (for example, by visiting the Crow and Shovel, a tavern in the Foreign Quarter where it's well-known that adventurers gather to plan their next ventures).

If all or none of the party are Pathfinders, don't use the first handout.

Players of characters who are Pathfinder agents and members of the Sovereign Court or Silver Crusade receive the second or third handout as appropriate.

[illegible]

Heard around the Grand Lodge

This Moonday's earth tremor has laid open one of the long-sealed siege castles, a cross-shaped keep west of the city. Folk are calling it the "Fallen Fortress". None know what is inside so there may be dangers and treasure in plenty – best organise a full and trustworthy crew.

Heard around the Grand Lodge

This Moonday's earth tremor has laid open one of the long-sealed siege castles, a cross-shaped keep west of the city. Folk are calling it the "Fallen Fortress". None know what is inside so there may be dangers and treasure in plenty – best organise a full and trustworthy crew.

Heard around the Grand Lodge

This Moonday's earth tremor has laid open one of the long-sealed siege castles, a cross-shaped keep west of the city. Folk are calling it the "Fallen Fortress". None know what is inside so there may be dangers and treasure in plenty – best organise a full and trustworthy crew.

Heard around the Grand Lodge

This Moonday's earth tremor has laid open one of the long-sealed siege castles, a cross-shaped keep west of the city. Folk are calling it the "Fallen Fortress". None know what is inside so there may be dangers and treasure in plenty – best organise a full and trustworthy crew.

Heard around the Grand Lodge

This Moonday's earth tremor has laid open one of the long-sealed siege castles, a cross-shaped keep west of the city. Folk are calling it the "Fallen Fortress". None know what is inside so there may be dangers and treasure in plenty – best organise a full and trustworthy crew.

Heard around the Grand Lodge

This Moonday's earth tremor has laid open one of the long-sealed siege castles, a cross-shaped keep west of the city. Folk are calling it the "Fallen Fortress". None know what is inside so there may be dangers and treasure in plenty – best organise a full and trustworthy crew.

Esteemed friend,

Your keen savoir-faire no doubt has led you to the scuttlebutt of a siege castle that now lies open for exploration after being closely sealed for centuries. The miscreant responsible for this pile stole from both the cultured and uncouth. Should you find items of high society preserved from this historical age, I believe we may earn some little respect and gratitude from Absalom's older and more notable families by returning these relics to their rightful holders.

Gloriana Morilla

Bearer of Light,

Once more fortune favours our cause as the base instincts of treasure-hunters serve us with news of access to the leavings of a notorious brigand and black magician. Among his many foul deeds, that which rankles most to me was the plunder of a once-serene chapel dedicated to the Lords Empyreal in an inland village. If within the tower's loot you come across any of the consecrated items of this former shrine, you will earn reward both monetary and spiritual by sequestering them to our care.

Ollystra Zadrian

Esteemed friend,

Your keen savoir-faire no doubt has led you to the scuttlebutt of a siege castle that now lies open for exploration after being closely sealed for centuries. The miscreant responsible for this pile stole from both the cultured and uncouth. Should you find items of high society preserved from this historical age, I believe we may earn some little respect and gratitude from Absalom's older and more notable families by returning these relics to their rightful holders.

Gloriana Morilla

Bearer of Light,

Once more fortune favours our cause as the base instincts of treasure-hunters serve us with news of access to the leavings of a notorious brigand and black magician. Among his many foul deeds, that which rankles most to me was the plunder of a once-serene chapel dedicated to the Lords Empyreal in an inland village. If within the tower's loot you come across any of the consecrated items of this former shrine, you will earn reward both monetary and spiritual by sequestering them to our care.

Ollystra Zadrian